In an effort to thank Under Armour and SportsBusiness Journal for the significant role they each play in this award process, I have listed below our contacts at those entities with the hope that you can send them a note of thanks when time permits.

As you know, at our Convention you will be receiving an Under Armour Athletics Director of the Year award plaque and the week of our Convention, SportsBusiness Journal will be running photos and biographies of each of the award winners.

For your information, the origin of this award was that our officers and past presidents noticed a void in the industry when it came to recognizing athletics directors in his or her community. Hence, this award was created and with the help of Under Armour, our sponsor, and SportsBusiness Journal, our print partner. We have attempted to promote the tremendous job each of our directors of athletics does to manage the resources and student-athletes in each respective community.

Congratulations on being named one of our 2010 Under Armour Athletics Director of the Year award winners. This award is especially meaningful because you were nominated and voted upon by your peers, which is always the best form of flattery.

I trust this correspondence finds you well.
